

Citing Antigone & Inherit the Wind

In-text:

■ Always use parenthetical citation. Don't refer to page number in text of your sentence.

⊖ On page 214, Creon calls Ismene and Antigone "sister vipers."

⊕ Creon calls Ismene and Antigone "sister vipers" (Ant. 214)

■ Make sure full names of plays and authors appear in the introductory paragraph.

■ For references to Antigone, put abbreviated name of play (Ant.) in parentheses with page number. For references to Inherit the Wind, use authors' names and page number in parentheses (Lawrence and Lee 25).

■ Short quotes -- If you quote text of three lines or less, simply incorporate the lines into your text. If your text is poetry (and all of Antigone is), use a slash with a space on each side to indicate new lines in original text:

- Creon demonstrates his dictatorial attitude when he haughtily points out to Haemon, "The state is his who rules it" (Ant. 224).
- The Messenger announces Eurydice's death and explains that "her heart was shattered / And her hand drove keen the dagger" (Ant. 250).

■ Long Quotes -- If you quote more than three lines of poetry or text, set off quote on new line, indent about one inch from left-hand margin, and don't use quotation marks:

As Rachel reads his article, Hornbeck is unable to turn off his satirical commentary:

My typewriter's been singing
A sweet sad song about the Hillsboro heretic,
B. Cates: boy-Socrates, latter-day Dreyfus,
Romeo with a biology book. (L & L 29)

■ Dialogue -- If you quote dialogue of two or more characters, set the quotation off from the text of your essay in the same way as you set off long quotes. Put each speaker's name entirely in caps, followed by a period.

The real attitude of some of Hillsboro's citizens is revealed in Hornbeck's conversation with a Hillsboro merchant:

HORNBECK. May I ask your opinion, sir, on Evolution?
STOREKEEPER. Don't have any opinions. They're bad for business. (L& L 15-16)
